

Regional Coaching and Volunteering Managers

Posts are available to cover areas across the whole of Scotland

Salary circa £30,000 - £33,000 p.a. (depending upon skills and experience)

This is an exciting time to be involved in Scottish sport with a number of high profile events coming to Scotland including the International Children's Games 2011, the Commonwealth Games and the Ryder Cup in 2014. Don't forget that at a UK level there's also the Olympics in 2012.

As the national agency for sport our mission is to encourage everyone in Scotland to discover and develop their own sporting experience, helping to increase participation and improve performances in sport.

sportscotland is putting in place a new and exciting regional infrastructure to support partners in the recruitment, retention, development and recognition of volunteers and coaches in Scottish sport and this is your chance to be part of it. The Regional Coaching and Volunteering Managers will be key drivers in its success, and will be responsible for leading the development of officials, administrators, coaches and subsequent services within the regional sporting partnership area. The successful candidate will also lead the delivery of national programmes at a regional level and will support others in improving the quality and quantity of volunteers and coaches delivering in Scotland.

You will be a proven team player who not only thinks long-term but can also demonstrate an ability to build and maintain strong relationships up to senior management level. Exceptional communication skills are essential. Experience in a sports related environment would be an advantage although not essential, but it is crucial that you have a passion for the coaching and volunteering agenda in Scottish Sport. Primarily, we are looking for people with drive and potential to achieve outcomes.

In return for all of the above we are offering a fantastic working environment and the superb opportunity to be part of the sports development team driving real and positive change in Scottish sport.
